LADIES SHOOT AT LOCAL GUN CLUB

FRESH AIR AND HOT AIR
Both on Tap at Camp Gab-a-lott in North Main Street.

Quartette of the Fair Sex Took a Bead on Defenseless Birds of Clay.

THEY ALMOST HIT A BARREL

Just Think—One of Those Horrid Old Guns Kicked a Young Lady, Some'um Awful.

It wasn't the man behind the gun that attracted attention at the Country Club yesterday afternoon at the weekly shoot of the Gun Club. It was the women crack shots. Four of Rushville's fair sex were present and being inspired and moved by the enthusiasm attending the shoot by the "men folks" they asked to try their hand at the game. None of them had ever fired a shot gun before. But they had taken part in the Fourth of July celebration since they were children and they thought it would be just as easy to fire off a hefty shotgun as a roman candle or giant shooting cracker. Fact is, it was just as easy to fire it off but oh! you result.

It is good betting that neither of them would feel worse today if they had spent yesterday carrying the load instead of shooting. Those shoulders! My!—Just think of those horrid old guns kicking a woman. One of them kicked so hard once that a young lady was knocked backward and would have fallen to the ground but for the agility and chivalry of a man who sprang and caught her.

The ladies first shot at clay pigeons, but—well next they stuck up a barrel out in the field and honestly, the woman "put-near" hit that. In the quartette were Mrs. Norm Norris, Miss Harriett Caldwell and the Misses Elsa and Clara Bohannon.

PRESENTED LOVING CUP

Students of Sailor's and Soldier's Orphan's Home Remember Friend.

The following dispatch from Knightstown says: Dr. O. E. Holloway of this city was presented this morning with a beautiful loving cup as a token of appreciation from the present and former pupils and employees of the Indiana Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home. Dr. Holloway has been physician to the home for the last twenty-four years and has taken a great interest in all affairs of the institution, giving much of his time to reunions and home-comings of the students and employees.

JUST A BIT NOISY.

City Marshal Price has been called several times to the barn in the rear of the Grand hotel, on complaint of neighbors. It is said that the place was fast becoming a noisy rendezvous for a number of young chaps. They make their get-away before the officer arrives, when they see him coming.

DR. TEVIS TRAINS HIS MEMORY

Took a System by Mail—Peculiar Traits and Habits of a Coach Dog.

It may not look attractive and neat, but we all have to take our hats off to the scheme inaugurated by Theo. Reed to beat the fly and mosquito game in season. At his home in North Main street he has boxed off half of his front veranda with a fine screen and there he lies to read and take a nap occasionally free from bugs and mosquitoes at night and flies by day.

Postoffice inspectors, have been busy with the large publications such as the mail order magazines of Maine, inspecting their subscriptions and now are turning their attention to the country daily and weekly papers. If an inspector should come to Rushville there would be quite a few Rush county readers who would be discontinued from the lists of Rushville papers because they are not paid in advance and are more than three months in arrears.

A newspaper should not be blamed when they discontinue names from their list as that is in accordance with the postoffice ruling. If your paper is not paid in advance and you fail to receive it some day you will know that the inspector has arrived in Rushville. He is likely to be here any day and Rush county readers should prepare for him by having their subscription's paid in advance.

The large paper press now used by Clarence Cross, the paper king at the postoffice, is a crude but adequate affair. The large wooden screw used was taken from an old cider press. It is now possible for Cross to get four or five hundred pounds of paper in a bale. He ships it to the strawboard works at Carthage, in earload lots. City Mail Carrier Blake Carmichael assisted in the manufacture of the new paper baling press, which is the work of a genius.

While riding home from the swimming hole on the back end of a gravel wagon yesterday evening, Harold, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Osborne, suffered a badly mashed leg and one broken bone. The wagon on which young Osborn together with two other boys were riding, stopped suddenly and the second gravel wagon, which was following close behind, ran into it catching the boys leg between the tongue and the endgate. His leg was severely mashed and one bone broken in his ankle. The physician fears that more bones are broken, but is yet unable to learn on account of the swollen condition of the leg.

Whenever a gas company turns off the gas from its mains to make repairs, there is always danger of fire resulting, no matter how much publicity is given. There are a few people who never read a paper, and then many of us forget when a notice is given. In addition to the newspaper notices and handbills, it would be well to frame up another scheme. On the hour appointed for turning off the gas, it could easily be arranged to have the fire bell ring to ring out a given number of taps.

John Moore, the colored teamster, has the largest dog in town, and one would say, probably one of the largest in captivity. It is as big as thirty dollars worth of veal, on foot. The other evening one of the Moore girls was walking down the street with the mastiff at her heels and a little boy of five years, on seeing them, rushed into his home and informed his mother that "the Uncle Tom's Cabin parade is coming." The dog is a good natured brute and they call him Victor. Not that he looks anything like "His Master's Voice," however. He might have been named after Victor Moore, the leading comedian in "Talk of New York," "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," and other Cohan shows.

Dr. V. W. Tevis, the M. E. minister, is a firm believer in the training of memory. He believes it is an art that anyone with patience and perseverance can accomplish—but not from guide and text books on the subject, which are being widely sold throughout the country just now. A number of firms are conducting a system of schooling by mail. The course costs about ten dollars and isn't worth the postage, according to Dr. Tevis. He knows, because he "went against it." He says you get a book of rules that you must commit to memory before you get the system in working order. And he claims it would take a Daniel Webster to even remember the rules. One could never hope to get them down pat short of ten years. And the system is no good without you are a master of the rules. Dr. Tevis says he remembers one of the first requisites and he recalls putting it into practice once. That was before he threw his text book away. Whenever you meet anyone, for instance, the book said for you to repeat their names a number of times and if it was an odd or peculiar name to make a mental note of that. Shortly after this Dr. Tevis was lecturing in the southern part of the State. He was introduced to a man name Snodgrass and thought he, here is a dandy opportunity to try this stunt as the man said he attended the State meeting of ministers often and hoped to meet Dr. Tevis again. Following the instruction of the course, soon after the introduction, Dr. Tevis withdrew a few feet and muttered half aloud "Snodgrass, Snodgrass, Snodgrass, Snodgrass." After repeating the name four times he quickly made an analysis of it. He said to himself: "Snodgrass—that's a funny name. Grass is green, green as grass—Snod grass." The system was working fine. Dr. Tevis felt assured he would never forget that name.

And sure enough he didn't. At the next ministerial association who should step up with outstretched hand but his friend from southern Indiana. The friend began: "You don't remember me, do you?" "Oh yes, I do," said the doctor, "you're Mr. Green. Howdy do."

Local Poultry Dealers Endeavoring to Get a Line on the Crop—Very Uncertain.

TO FALL SHORT OF LAST YEAR

Local poultry dealers are attempting to get a line on the turkey crop of Rush county, but they say that it is a very difficult thing to do, as some raisers say they have plenty of turkeys this year where others declare that they have practically none and that their fowls died from causes unknown to them.

It is believed generally that the turkey crop in Rush county will fall short this year and that the crop throughout the country will not be large enough to make the Thanksgiving and Christmas turkey any cheaper than he was last year.

TALK ORGANIZING TENNIS TOURNEY

By Means of Which a Team Could be Selected to Represent Rushville.

OLD STARS ARE NOW WANTED

Considerable talk has been heard on all sides concerning the organization of a tennis tournament by means of which a suitable team, composed of the players making the highest average, could be selected to represent Rushville in games with other cities. Many good tennis players are to be found in the city and they are all enthusiastic over the prospects of such a project. Numerous men who were formerly bright and shining lights at the game have not been out this season. They are all urged to practice up a bit and such an organization may be perfected in the near future.

JIM WATSON HAS WEALTH DREAMS

Buys Half Interest in Largest Locust Grove in This State.

CONTAINS 126,000 PLANTS

Watson's Great Grandchildren Will Reap the Benefit From the New Enterprise.

At the age of 45, James E. Watson, former representative from the Sixth Indiana District and late Republican candidate for Governor of Indiana, has acquired his first real estate, says the Washington dispatch to the Indianapolis Star today.

Mr. Watson never has shown any inclination to become a landowner. In fact it has always been his intention to live and die in virtuous poverty until Thomas P. Littlepage showed him the other day how he could acquire fabulous wealth within a few years and Mr. Watson thought that since it was all so easy he would try being a Croesus for awhile. He is now looking as one of Indiana's leading men of wealth. He is expecting an inquiry at any time for an estimate of his fortune for the leading financial directories but like other men of large and promising holdings it will be difficult for him to reduce his prospects to cold figures.

Mr. Watson's sudden leap into affluence occurred the other afternoon just after Mr. Littlepage had used several large sheets of paper in proving to him, by a series of the most marvelous mathematical calculations, how much money is to be made out of locust trees. Mr. Littlepage, who is an expert on trees and mighty handy with figures, showed beyond the slightest shadow of controversy that the man who puts his trust in locust trees as an avenue to fortune, can never go astray.

Mr. Watson was very much impressed and the upshot was that he purchased of Mr. Littlepage a half interest in a locust farm of seventy acres near Gentryville, Ind. Former Senator Hemenway owns the other half interest in the farm.

The largest locust grove in Indiana is located on this farm. It consists of 126,000 trees, varying from one to three years of age. All are in a thriving condition. As a result of Mr. Watson's first incursion into the realm of real estate ownership, he becomes the owner of 63,000 locust trees. He makes no pretension of being a high financier, but he says he can see visions of fabulous wealth coming his way as soon as the locust trees are large enough to be sold for railroad ties and fence posts.

The farm is located in the new oil belt and speculators have been trying

ANY OLD RAGS IRON TO SELL?

Junk Man Drives up and Down Dirty Alley Spitting Out the Nasal Cry.

ALWAYS MAKING MONEY

Few Things Are More Unsightly Than A Pile of Junk as High as a Two Story Building.

Up and down the dirty back alleys drives the junk man, singing his mournful, nasal cry, loading his rickety wagon with broken scraps and pieces of old iron—an object of pity or of ridicule to most of the uninformed public.

Let him be admired or envied rather, for if not he, himself, at least his employer is probably making more money than nine out of ten professional men. Better than that his work is of the utmost importance in the world and, in the aggregate, reaches proportions almost beyond the belief of the casual man in the street.

Few things are more depressing and unsightly than a pile of junk as high as a two story building. One may see them in every city and, so far as the casual observer can determine none of the stuff is ever moved.

The piles increase, apparently from month to month and grow rustier and rustier but the men in the business keep on buying.

How are they able to keep so much money tied up? Where do they get the large amount of capital which seems to be necessary?

They borrow from the banks, like any other business man, on the security of their stock in trade.

"No better security," the president of almost any bank will declare. "It can neither burn nor blow away. It can't be damaged by water or smoke. Where is there a collateral like that?"

It is absolutely safe. The foundries and the nut and bolt works and the stove factories can't get along without it. It pays the largest profits of any business to which we lend money and these profits fluctuate very little. Junk is always in demand. The men in that business are excellent customers."

Offers Indian Lands In the Northwest.

REGISTRATION BEGUN TODAY

Agricultural and Grazing Land In

Montana, Idaho and Washington

Hitherto Occupied by Aborigines to

Be Thrown Open to White Settlement—Choice of Locations to Be Determined by Lottery, Beginning

Aug. 9.

Coeur d'Alene, Ida., July 15.—The first step was taken in the throwing open to white settlement of more than 700,000 acres of agricultural and grazing lands in the northwest, with the opening of today's mail by James W. Witten, government superintendent of land opening in this place.

The government offers to settlers three Indian reservations—that of the Coeur d'Alene Indians in northern Idaho, that of the Spokanes in Washington and that of the Flatheads in Montana. Registration begins today and will continue until Aug. 5. All who desire to register for these lands must go in person to the registration points at Kalispell or Missoula, Mont., to register for Flathead lands, to this city to register for Coeur d'Alene lands and to Spokane to register for Spokane lands. Applications by mail will be received only at Coeur d'Alene, where Judge Witten will conduct the lottery for the choice of lands beginning on the morning of Aug. 9. Applications, which may be sworn to before a notary public, must be sent to Judge Witten by ordinary mail, not by registered mail, and the envelopes must bear no distinguishing marks, such as return cards or addresses of senders.

SPECIAL PRIVILEGE OF VETERANS.

Soldiers and sailors of the civil war, Spanish war and Philippine insurrection or their widows or children may register through agents. This means that the veterans or their heirs do not have to come to the northwest to register.

About 3,750 farms will be opened for settlement. For several months the land office has been receiving from 800 to 1,000 letters a day from prospective settlers inquiring as to the conditions governing the lottery. Only 3,000 or 4,000 people can hope to receive the prizes.

It must be understood that the lands are not to be given away, but must be paid for within five years on terms fixed by the government, at the rate of from $1.25 to $7 per acre. The farms to be sold measure 160 acres each. There are conditions of settlement, etc., to be met by the purchasers.

The principal crops produced on these Indian lands are wheat, oats and hay, but much of the soil has also proved itself to be admirably adapted to the cultivation of potatoes, sugar beets and other root crops, also tree and vine fruits.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE GINGLES CASE

STATE OFFERS EVIDENCE IN IMPEACHMENT.

Chicago, July 15.—It is expected the evidence in the trial of Ella Gingles will close today and that the case will reach the jury by Saturday.

The last witness to appear against the young Irish lacemaker was Agnes May Barrette, proprietor of the lace store in the Wellington hotel, who has been pictured all through the trial as the chief nemesis of the Gingles girl and the originator of all the weird plots against her. Assistant State's Attorney B. J. Short spared Miss Barrette the recital of the acts which have been charged against her by the girl defendant.

"I will simply ask you," said Mr. Short, "if you ever attempted to sell this girl into 'white slavery'; if you ever abused or assaulted her in the Wellington hotel, or had any knowledge of any of these things?"

"No, sir," replied Miss Barrette, tears streaming down her face. "It is all a falsehood from the beginning to the end."

Much to the surprise of the spectators, who expected to see this woman put through the greatest ordeal of her life, P. H. O'Donnell, counsel for the defense, excused Miss Barrette without asking her any questions.

The testimony against the Gingles girl was almost in the nature of an avalanche of accusations and impeachment. The state brought three witnesses from Canada, men who had known the defendant while she was a resident there. Through these men it was brought into the record of the case that Ella Gingles was not a pure and innocent country girl, but that she knew well the ways of men and of the world.

The testimony of a Canadian photographer was in downright contradiction of testimony given by Miss Gingles. In circumstantial manner he told of how Miss Gingles came to him, giving the name of "Miss Wilson" and had him take a picture of her in a lace gown. In her direct testimony Miss Gingles flatly denied that she had had this picture taken, and declared that it was a reproduction of a photograph taken in Ireland. The picture showed her in a dress belonging to her employer's wife, Mrs. D. S. Thornton of Belleville, Ont.

Miss Gingles appeared nervous when she faced her former employer. She clasped and unclasped her hands while the unwelcome allegations concerning her earlier life were brought home to her. But she did not break down. She told the reporters that all these things were lies.

TODD'S BALLOON TRIP.

Astronomer Denies He Seeks Communication With Mars.

A special dispatch from Amherst, Mass., quotes Professor David P. Todd, the astronomer, as saying regarding his proposed ascent by balloon to very high altitudes:

"The newspapers are wrong in saying that the object of this trip is to establish communication with Mars."

"What would you say if I told you that I have grave doubts whether there are any human beings on Mars with whom I or any one else can hold communication of any kind?"

"I am confident of reaching 25,000 feet. That is as high as I need go to establish my theory about condensed air, but if all is working well when we reach that height I'll continue to ascend. The record ascension was made in 1862 by Glashier in an open basket, 36,000 feet."

"Now, if this balloon voyage establishes the correctness of my theory that a man can live in air pumped from an altitude of 25,000 feet or more and compressed so that it exerts a pressure of fifteen pounds to the square inch then I will immediately try to push to completion my project of building an astronomical observatory on the summit of Mount Chimborazo."

Mount Chimborazo is one of the highest peaks in the Andes in Ecuador. It is 21,420 feet above the sea level. It is perpetually covered with snow and ice. The atmosphere is so rarefied that human beings cannot breathe in it and live.

BEST HUSBAND SHOW.

Young Matrons Held It at Spokane, Wash., and Awarded Prizes.

The recent activity of suffrage has aroused the antagonism of a bevy of prominent Spokane (Wash.) young married women who are proud that they have husbands qualified to have a voice and vote in lawmaking for them. These young matrons held a "husband show" at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Berkey, 809 Eleventh avenue, Spokane.

Each had been instructed to bring her husband to the exhibit after first taking the precaution to see that the male member of the family was so attired as to make the best appearance.

The men were put through stunts to test their proficiency in the performance of domestic duties, and prizes were awarded in each test.

TAET REFEREE

President Will See That Aldrich and Payne Fight Fair.

Washington, July 15.—Acting for the senate and house respectively, Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne will fight out between them the disputes over the tariff bill, with President Taft serving as umpire, so as to prevent any drawn battles. This was decided by the conference committee appointed by the two branches of congress.

No formal action was had in conference giving to the two leaders special jurisdiction to make up the tariff bill, but after an informal discussion it was said that such schedules as lumber, coal, hides, oil, iron ore and similar raw materials could best be adjusted by the two leaders, who know the tempers of their respective houses concerning these disputes. Of course any decisions reached by Messrs. Aldrich and Payne will be reviewed by the full conference.

DEPARTED FROM ALL COURT TRADITION

Emperor William Changed Chancellors In Public View.

Berlin, July 15.—Retiring from office, Prince Von Buelow, chancellor of the empire, has been succeeded by Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg. The latter was succeeded by Herr Delbrueck as minister of the interior and vice chancellor; Herr Sydow, secretary of the imperial treasury, has been appointed to the department of commerce, while Herr Wermuth, under secretary for the interior, is the new secretary of the treasury. Herr Von Trott Zu Solz, president of the province of Brandenburg, succeeds Ludwig Holle, Prussian minister of public instruction, who has retired owing to ill health. Various other minor changes have been made after conferences which the emperor had with his ministerial advisors.

The emperor, departing from all court traditions, transacted the business pertaining to the change of chancellors with the broadest publicity during three hours for all Berlin to see. His majesty received Prince Von Buelow and later Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, upon a small garden terrace between the palace and an arm of the Spree, in view of a great crowd of spectators who had gathered on Electors bridge, some fifty or sixty yards away, and in Burgstrasse, on the other side of the narrow stream.

The emperor presented the retiring chancellor with the order of the Black Eagle, set in diamonds, and with it a cordial letter, which he published in the official gazette, expressing his majesty's reluctance in parting with his chancellor, and subscribing himself, "Your grateful sovereign." The political aspects of the change are important. Prince Von Buelow is the first German chancellor who has been compelled to leave office because of an adverse parliamentary majority. Capital, it is true, partly on account of Conservative opinion, but not through direct parliamentary defeat.

The change is regarded by the Liberals as a long step toward ministerial responsibility to the reichstag. It was brought about, oddly enough, by the Conservatives and Clericals, parties opposed in principle to an absolute parliamentary system. They are in operation with eighteen Polish members whose policy is opposition to all governments, and were able to defeat Chancellor Von Buelow's finance measure by eight votes. The chancellor could have remained in office had he accepted the coalition's finance bill, with the direct legacy duties eliminated, but he chose rather to retire.

INJURED WIFE IS FORGIVING

Mrs. Miller Offers to Come to Husband's Aid.

HE WRITES HER TO COME ON

Despite the Apparent Neglect With Which She Had Been Treated, Dr. Miller's Faithful Wife Forgets All in Face of Tragedy Which Has Brought Her Rival and Her Husband Into the Hands of the Law—Mrs. Sayler Not Allowed to Attend Murdered Husband's Funeral.

Watseka, Ill., July 15.—Summoning his still faithful wife to his side, a letter was sent from her by Dr. William L. Miller, slayer of J. B. Sayler, the Crescent City banker, whose body was followed to the grave by nearly the entire adult population of his home town. A press dispatch from Blairsville, Pa., quoting Mrs. Miller as having forgiven her husband and only awaiting his summons to fly to his aid was received here simultaneously with a private message from Mrs. Miller to Sheriff Heikes of the same import. The message was turned over to the prisoner, the sheriff offering to telegraph a reply.

"I will write," replied the incarcerated physician. It was a long letter, slowly and carefully written, and for the first time since the tragedy which wrecked two homes there was a glow on the prisoner's cheeks.

But one definite fact concerning the letter is known—it's burden was "come." What else appears on the closely written sheets now speeding eastward can only be conjectured, and there is plenty of that here.

It is believed by those who have seen the prisoner since his receipt of Mrs. Miller's message that the romance which began its surreptitious course two years ago, ripened into open disregard of the conventions of society, put one prominent citizen into his grave and another behind the bars, has ended. The doctor's whole attitude—stray remarks dropped to intimate friends who called, the new hopefulness in his eyes—all suggested this solution.

Mrs. Sayler was not allowed to attend her husband's funeral, although she begged the sheriff for permission to do so.

BUSY ON AIRSHIP

Bradford Brothers, at Connersville, Fitting and Testing.

Connersville, Ind., July 15.—Busy fitting on a new airship, the Bradford brothers are at work fitting and testing, with little concern over what is being said about them. In their workshop there is a skeleton-like frame, forty-five feet in length and triangular in shape. This frame weighs only sixty pounds, being made of straight-grained spruce.

The seven-horsepower engine is little larger than a modern hand sawmill and weighs only sixty-five pounds. The gas bag will be cigar-shaped, fifty feet in length and twenty feet in diameter at the center. When filled with gas it will have a lifting capacity of approximately 500 pounds.

The Bradfords think the whole apparatus, frame, engine, gas bag, navigator and almost 100 pounds of ballast will weigh less than that. The motor will work at the front end of the frame and will pull the craft through the air instead of propelling it. By this contrivance the navigator, who will sit astride the frame-work, can by shifting his position cause the point of the craft to point upward, whereupon this "puller" will cause the machine to rise higher or bear the point downward so it will descend toward the earth. Only one person will fly with the machine.

Opening of New Hospital.

Logansport, Ind., July 15.—The new $100,000 St. Joseph hospital was formally opened to the public with high mass in the chapel, which was read by the Rt. Rev. Henry J. Aldering, bishop of the Fort Wayne diocese of the Catholic church. Between forty and fifty priests from different Indiana and Illinois cities attended the ceremonies, and thousands of Logansport and Cass county residents visited the institution.

Vote Buying Alleged.

Washington, Ind., July 15.—A suit has been filed at Shoals by Hiram McCormick for Joe Pat Arvin of Loogoo-tee, to oust Thomas Queen from the office of sheriff of Martin county. Arvin made the race against Queen and was defeated by six votes. In the complaint it is alleged that vote-buying elected Queen to the office, and on this ground the complaint is made.

Deadly Roadside Altercation.

Cannelton, Ind., July 15.—Thomas Duncan, a well known negro, shot James Sugg, another negro, in a roadside altercation. A bullet pierced Sugg's body between the stomach and heart and he died to death inwardly. The affair occurred within sight of reliable white witnesses. Duncan was promptly arrested and is now in jail.

The Hartford City News has the following editorial, which has the breath of common sense in it, for it sounds a note of alarm over a fast growing and alarming condition:

"The Indianapolis Star of June 29 states that it is the determination of the Anti-Saloon league to prevent the illegal sale of liquor in "dry" territory. The Star takes it for granted that the county Prohibitionists will be able to close the blind tigers, etc., but it does not champion the cause of enforcement of the present laws. Until the Star and the anti-saloonists succeed in voting in State-wide prohibition, they should assist the better class of citizens in regulating the liquor traffic as it now is. It is nonsense to say the present laws cannot be enforced, but laws far more difficult to enforce can be made effective."

"The fact is, the anti-saloonists are not in favor of making the best of our present laws. They encourage municipal officers in ignoring violations, and where voters want the licensed saloon under certain restrictions, you find these so-called reformers advocating the granting of licenses without limit. In fact, where the "drys" lose, they do everything in their power to promote evil in order to furnish an argument against the licensed saloon, while they hold up the promise of absolutely stopping the traffic where they win. The Prohibition movement is a failure in Indiana as it is and has been elsewhere."

Negotiations are pending between local capitalists and Cox & McNealy, of Indianapolis, manufacturers of night gowns, which it is believed will terminate in the location of a gown factory here employing from twenty-five to fifty men and women. Large Navy Cheapest and Best Insurance Against War.

By GEORGE VON L. MEYER,
Secretary of the Navy.

ODAY is the ERA OF PEACE. Peace societies, international tribunals and the numerous conferences that have been held during the past few years all emphasize this fact, and I fully appreciate the value of these organizations and assemblies.

Yet it is important that we should not forget that while these peace societies are a power their chief value is as a formative influence to STIMULATE SENTIMENT AND CRYSTALIZE PUBLIC OPINION AGAINST THE HORRORS OF WAR.

THE REALLY EFFECTIVE AND HONORABLE METHOD OF AVOIDING WAR IS TO BE PREPARED FOR WAR BY THE POSSESSION OF AN EFFICIENT, UP TO DATE AND THOROUGHLY EQUIPPED FLEET OF BATTLESHIPS, BOTH ON THE ATLANTIC AND THE PACIFIC OCEANS.

Our officers and men demonstrated their efficiency and the battleships their seaworthiness when they made the circle of the globe without an accident and on a schedule of time which has undoubtedly excited the envy of every general manager of our transcontinental railroads.

THAT FLEET, WHICH HAS WORKED SO WELL AS A UNIT, SHOULD NOT BE DIVIDED BETWEEN THE PACIFIC AND THE ATLANTIC, BUT OUR NAVAL ARMAMENT SHOULD BE SO PROVIDED FOR THAT EVENTUALLY WE SHALL HAVE A FORCE OF BATTLESHIPS IN EACH OCEAN EQUIVALENT TO THAT WHICH WE NOW HAVE IN THE ATLANTIC.

Civilization has HARNESSSED THE FIGHTING SPIRIT that is inborn in man and has turned it toward the development of science, making it the great factor in the extraordinary human progress and development of wealth in the last twenty years, but it is STILL THE SAME FIGHTING SPIRIT, and the fact that it has been diverted into other channels should not be permitted to banish patriotic sentiments or to welcome the thought of peace at any price.

In this country we are brought up with a respect for the majesty of the law, and it is in accordance with what I may call our national conscience to deal justly with other powers. But it is essential that we should BE IN A POSITION TO DEMAND JUSTICE FOR OURSELVES.

The navy of the United States should be regarded as an INSURANCE AGAINST WAR AND THE CONSEQUENT ENORMOUS LOSSES INCIDENT TO WAR. But in order to serve as an insurance it must be a strong and effective navy. It is the CHEAPEST AND BEST INSURANCE in which our nation can invest.

GREAT BRITAIN, WHOSE TOTAL VALUE IS ABOUT $60,000,000,000, EXPENDS ANNUALLY ON HER NAVY 2 PER CENT OF THIS VALUATION; FRANCE, WITH A VALUATION OF NEARLY $50,000,000,000, EXPENDS 1.3 PER CENT, WHILE THE UNITED STATES, WITH A TOTAL WEALTH OF A LITTLE MORE THAN $100,000,000,000, EXPENDS BUT ONE-TENTH OF 1 PER CENT ANNUALLY FOR NAVAL PURPOSES.

BY THE WAYSIDE

A girl should learn to—sew, cook, save, mend, keep house, value money, say something, make aher home pretty, keep herself young and sweet, love some good man, and take hold and sail the domestic barque when a storm blows the cook off the range.

A girl does learn to—wishes, primp, chatter, chew gum, blow money, ahor housework, dress like mother, walk like Ethel Barrymore, make her room look like a nickelodeon, and love the patrimony of some animated little cigarette holder who thinks his papa made the world.

THE NAMES OF FARMS.

The Daily Republican would like to have a list of the farms in Rush county bearing a name, that the same can be published. So far but one farmer has complied with our first request to send in the name, name of owner and rural route. F. J. Ewbank, on route eleven, has a beautiful place called "Rushmore."

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

Those who came down Main street at an early hour this morning were surprised to see a change in a well known firm. During the night some one has placed a sign on the Tyner tailoring establishment which read:

The son is not active in the firm as he is but two days old.

How to Cure Skin Diseases.

The germs and their poisons which cause the disease must be drawn to the surface of the skin and destroyed.

Zemo, a scientific preparation for external use will do this and will positively cure Eczema, Pimples, Dandruff and every form of skin or scalp disease. See photos of many remarkable cures and show case or window display at F. E. Wolcott's drug store. Ask for sample.

THE GIRL I LEFT BEHIND ME.

THE dames of France are fond and free.
And Flemish lips are willing,
And soft the maids of Italy,
And Spanish eyes are thrilling.
Still, though I bask beneath their smile,
Their charms fail to bind me,
And my heart fails back to Erin's isle,
To the girl I left behind me.

For she's as fair as Shannon's side,
And purer than its water,
But she refused to be my bride,
Though many a year I sought her.
Yet since to France I sailed away,
Her letters oft remind me
That I promised never to gainsay
The girl I left behind me.

She says: "My own dear love, come home.
My friends are rich and many.
Or else abroad with you I'll roam,
A soldier stout as any.
If you'll not come nor let me go,
I'll think you have resigned me."
My heart nigh broke when I answered
"No!"

To the girl I left behind me.
For never shall my true love brave
A life of war and toiling,
And never as a skulking slave
I'll tread my native soil on.
But were I free or to be freed
The battle's close would find me
In Ireland bound, nor message need
From the girl I left behind me.
—Author Unknown.

THE CELESTIAL LOVE.

AND as they serve men austere,
After their own genius, clearly,
Without a false humility,
For this is love's nobility—
Not to scatter bread and gold,
Goods and raiment bought and sold,
But to hold fast his simple sense
And speak the speech of innocence
And with hand and body and blood
To make his bosom counsel good.
He that feeds men serveth few;
He serves all who dare be true.
—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

in a modern product. From time immemorial sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost every one knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair and making it grow. In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready to use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. Such a preparation is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, which is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or which is sent directly by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Courtland St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Bondsman's Fate" and "Cured by Gymnastics" is a well-balanced program which will be shown at the Star-Grand theater tonight. The first subject is dramatic and depicts a story of intense human interest. The second picture is comic. Miss Mary Cole will sing the illustrated song, "Sweet Rosie May."

The Palace Theater has a complete change of program tonight. "Plain Mame" shows "East Side" life in New York and illustrates the old maxim "All is not gold that glitters." This subject is a very interesting one and a subject that is sure to please. "Grin and Win or Converted by Billiken" is a comedy film and is full of ludicrous situations. It shows a sour-faced family and the different ways in which they come in contact with the God of good luck "Billiken." His picture is one long continuous laugh and will be enjoyed by all. Mr. Earl Robertson will sing that comic sensation "I'm a Yiddish Cowboy."

Three excellent pictures have been secured for the Vaudet tonight namely, "The Policeman Sleeps," "He Couldn't Lose Her," and "The World Upset." The program is extra good and will give one half hour's pleasant entertainment. Mrs. Blanche Wolverton will sing "Pansies Mean Thoughts and Thoughts Mean You."

CHAPTER IX.

THE AMERICAN BAR.

"YOU'RE wanted at the phone, Mr. Britt," said Miss Pelham. It was late in the evening a day or two afterward. Britt went into the booth. He was not in there long, but when he came out he found that Miss Pelham had disappeared. The coincidence was significant—Mr. Saunders was also missing from his seat on the window sill at the far end of the long corridor. Britt looked his disgust and muttered something characteristic. Having no one near with whom he could communicate, he boldly set off for the hanging garden, where Deppingham had installed the long idle roulette paraphernalia.

"Say," he said without ceremony, "the enemy's in trouble. Bowles just telephoned. There's a lot of excitement in the town. I don't know what to make of it."

"Then why the devil are you breaking in here with it?" growled Deppingham.

"This'll interest you, never fear. There's been a row between Von Blitz and the lawyer, and the lawyer has unmercifully thrashed Von Blitz. Good Lord, I'd like to have seen it, wouldn't you, Browne? Say, he's all right isn't he?"

"What was it all about?" demanded Browne.

"It seems that Von Blitz is in the habit of licking his wives," said Britt. "Our friend the enemy met him this evening and told him that no woman could beat his wife, singularly plural, while he was around. Von Blitz is a big, ugly chap, and he naturally resented the interference with his divine might. He told the lawyer to go hang or something equivalent. The lawyer knocked him down. From the way Bowles tells it he must have knocked him down so incessantly in the next five minutes that Von Blitz's attempts to stand up were nothing short of a stutter. Moreover, he wouldn't let Von Blitz stab him worth a cent. Bowles says he's got Von Blitz cowed, and the whole town is walking in circles, it's so dizzy. Well, to make it short, the lawyer has got Von Blitz to hating him secretly, and the German has a lot of influence over the people. It may be uncomfortable for our good looking friend."

"If he should be in great danger down there," said her ladyship firmly—perhaps consciously—"we must offer him a safe retreat in the chateau." The others looked at her in surprise. "We can't stand off and see him murdered, you know," she qualified hastily.

The next morning a messenger came up from the town with a letter directed to Messrs. Britt and Saunders. It was from the enemy and requested them to meet him in private conference at 4 that afternoon. "I think it will be for the benefit of all concerned if we can get together," wrote the enemy in conclusion.

The messenger carried back with him a dignified response in which the counselors for Mr. Browne and Lady Deppingham respectfully declined to engage in any conference at this time.

At 2 o'clock that afternoon the entire force of native servants picked up their belongings and marched out of the chateau. The major domo, suave and deferential, gravely informed Mr. Britt that they were leaving at the instigation of their legal adviser, who had but that hour issued his instructions.

"I hope you are not forgetting what I said about the American gunboats," said Britt ponderously.

"Ah," said Baillo, with a cunning smile, "our man is also a great American. He can command the gunboats, too, sahib. We have told him that you have the great power. He shows us that he can call upon the English ships as well, for he comes last from London. He can have both, while you have only one. Besides, he says you cannot send a message in the air without the wire unless he give permission. He have a little machine that catch all the lightning in the air and hold it till he reads the message. Our man is a great man—next to Mohammed."

Britt passed his hand over his brow,aggerated by these statements.

"Say, he's smoother than I thought. Most men would have been—fools enough to say that it was all poppycock about me sending wireless messages and calling out navies, but not he! And that machine for tapping the air! Say, we'd better go slow with that fellow. Shall I call him up on the phone and head off the strike?"

"Anything, Mr. Britt, to get back our servants," said Lady Deppingham, who had come up with Mrs. Browne.

When Britt reappeared after a brief stay in the telephone booth he was perspiring freely, and his face was redder, if possible, than ever before.

Our man is a great man—next to Mohammed.

"The Mine Owners' association, gentlemen, comprises the entire population of Japat. Here is where I receive my clients. Here is where they receive their daily loaf, if you will pardon the simile. I sit in the chairs; they squat on the rugs. We talk about rubles and sapphires as if they were peanuts. Occasionally we talk about our neighbors. Shall I make three mint juleps? Here, Selim! The ice, the mint and the straws—and the bottles. Sit down, gentlemen. This is the American bar that Baedeker tells you about—the one you've searched all over Europe for, I dare say."

"Reminds me of home, just a little bit," said Britt as the tall glasses were set before them. The Englishman was still clothed in reticence. "They shan't catch me napping," was the sober reflection of Thomas Saunders.

The enemy planted the mint in its bed of chipped ice. "The sagacity that Taswell Skaggs displayed in erecting an ice plant and cold storage house here is equaled only by John Wyckham's foresightedness in maintaining a contemporaneous mint bed. I imagine that you, gentlemen, are hoping to prove the old codgers insane. Between the three of us, and man to man, how can you have the heart to propose anything so unkind when we look, as we now do, upon the result of their extreme soundness of mind? Here's how!"

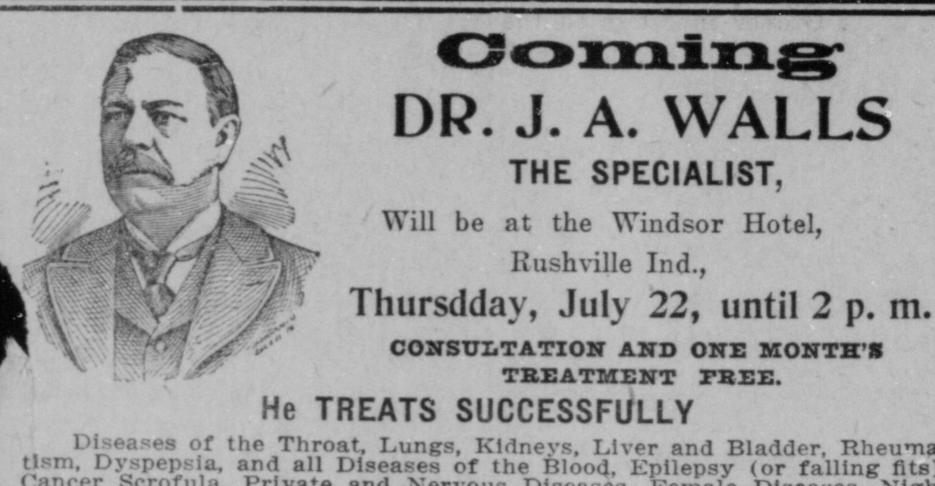

Selim passed the straws, and the three men took a long and simultaneous "pull" at the refreshing julep. Mr. Saunders felt something melt as he drew the subsequent long and satisfy-

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

Saunders. Please tell Lord Deppingham that if he persists in snooping about the ravines in search of rubies he'll get an unmanageable bullet in

I can't say as to Lady Deppingham, I'm quite sure his lordship will take no objection." Then we'll consider the deal closed. send one of my boys over tomorrow with a bunch of mint. Telephone to the bungalow when you need me. By the way," dropping into a musingly reflective air, "may I ask if Lady Deppingham is permitted to ride alone through the unfrequented and perilous parts of the island?" The question was directed to her solicitor. Perilous? What do you mean?" Just this, Mr. Saunders," said the enemy, leaning forward earnestly. "I'm not responsible for the acts of these islanders. There are men among them who would not hesitate to dispose of one or both of the heirs if they could do it without danger to their interests. What could be more simple, Mr. Saunders, than the death of Lady Deppingham if her horse should stumble and precipitate her to the bottom of one of those deep ravines? She wouldn't be alive to tell how it really happened."

"My word!" was all that Saunders could say, forgetting his julep in contemplation of the catastrophe.

"He's right," said Britt promptly.

"I'll keep my own client on the straight and public path. He's liable to tip over too."

"Deuce take your Browne," said Saunders, with mild asperity. "He never rides alone."

"I've noticed that," said the enemy coolly. "He's usually with Lady Deppingham. It's lucky that Japat is free from gossips, gentlemen."

"Oh, I say," said Saunders, "none of that talk, you know."

"There's another thing I want to speak of," said the enemy, arising to prepare the second round of juleps.

"I hear that your clients and their partners for life are in the habit of gambling like fury up there."

"Gambling?" said Britt. "What rot!"

"The servants say that they play bridge every night for vast piles of rubies and turn the wheel daily for sapphires uncountable. Oh, I get it straight."

"Why, man, it's all a joke. They use gun wads and simply play that they are rubies."

"My word," said Saunders, "there isn't a ruby or sapphire in the party."

"That's all right," said the enemy, standing before them with a bunch of mint in one hand and the bowl of ice in the other. "Every man in Japat thinks that your people are gambling with jewels that belong to the corporation. They think there's something crooked, d'ye see? My advice to you is, Stop that sort of joking."

"By Jove," said Saunders, taking a straw and at the same time staring in open mouthed wonder at the tall host,

"you appall me! It's most extraordinary."

"This is all offered in a kindly spirit, you understand," said the magnanimous enemy. "We might as well live comfortably as to die unseasonably here. Another little suggestion, Mr.

"Look here, old man," said Britt, his cheeks glowing; "it's mighty good of you to take this trouble for"—

"Don't mention it. I'd only ask in return that we three be a little more sociable hereafter. We're not here to cut each other's throat, you know, and we've got a deadly half year ahead of us. What say?"

For answer the two lawyers arose and shook hands with the excellent enemy. When they started for the chateau at 7 o'clock, each with six mint juleps about his person, they were too mellow for analysis. The enemy, who had drunk but little, took an arm of each and piloted them sturdily through the town.

ODD PSYCHICAL CASE.

Goldsmith Claims Dead Artist's Spirit Obsesses Him.

HEARD A STRANGE VOICE.

Frederic L. Thompson Takes Up Painting and Carries on Robert Swain Gifford's Work—Strains of Weird Music Heard as Scenes Familiar to the Artist Were Visited.

In a long report Professor James H. Hyslop, president of the American Society for Psychical Research, gives an account of the obsession of Frederic L. Thompson, a goldsmith, by the spirit of Robert Swain Gifford, an artist. Mr. Thompson has been obliged to give up his own trade and devote himself to painting the same scenes as the dead artist and on different occasions has heard words which seemed to proceed from the artist's spirit and the music it loved, though no one was near to produce it.

According to Professor Hyslop, Mr. Thompson's acquaintance with Mr. Gifford was only slight, and he knew practically nothing of art outside of his own trade.

In the summer of 1905 Mr. Thompson was first seized with the desire to paint in oils. As he gave way to the impulse he lost his interest in his own line of work and showed unexpected skill as an artist. As he worked he felt that he was Mr. Gifford and remarked to his wife, "Gifford wants to sketch," but it was not till six months later as he saw the notice of an exhibition in the American Art Galleries of the work of "the late Robert Swain Gifford" that he discovered that the artist had died about six months before he first felt driven to the brush.

As Mr. Thompson went through the Gifford exhibition he seemed to hear, according to Professor Hyslop, a voice saying: "You see what I have done. Can you not take up and finish my work?" From this time on the impulse to paint was stronger than ever, and by the following year he had produced several paintings of sufficient merit to command a fair price. One of his patrons was James B. Townsend, who remarked as he examined the picture that it resembled those of Mr. Gifford.

Mr. Thompson came to Professor Hyslop in January, 1907, as he feared that his mind was giving way through the strength of the obsession, and Professor Hyslop gives details of his visits to mediums, who had no idea who he was. In the following summer he handed to Professor Hyslop some sketches which he had made in the summer and fall of 1905. Professor Hyslop locked them up.

Then Mr. Thompson went to the summer home of Mr. Gifford at Nonquitt, Mass., which, he said, he had never visited before. His object was to discover certain scenes which had appeared to him repeatedly in his visions. While he was there Mrs. Gifford took him into the studio of the dead artist.

"To his surprise," says Professor Hyslop, "he saw on the easel an unfinished sketch which was absolutely identical with one of the sketches which he had left in my hands more than a month before. He said in his diary it almost took his breath away to see the identity between this painting and his visions and sketches."

There were two other pictures on easels which were identical with sketches he had made, but had not been left with me."

HAD ENOUGH OF FIGHTING

Royalist Forces In Teheran
Ready to Give Up.

ADMIT NATIONALIST STRENGTH

Supremacy of the Constitutional
Party Is Practically Admitted by the Shah's Forces, Who Are Arranging
Terms of Surrender—The Ruler,
However, Remains Obdurate and It
Is Not Unlikely That an Armed Attack on His Palace Will Be Next.

Teheran, Persia, July 15.—Apparently having had enough of fighting, the Royalist forces are prepared to admit the supremacy of the Nationalists. The secretary of the Russian legation arrived at the Mejliss building in behalf of General Liakhoff and submitted written proposals for the surrender of the Cossacks under his command. He asked first that the Nationalists should cease attacking the Cossacks, that the Cossacks should be allowed to continue service under the future Persian government, and that their safety should be guaranteed if they laid down their arms.

Sipahadar and Sardasrad replied that the officers and the Cossacks were free to return to their homes as soon as they surrendered their arms; that their safety would be guaranteed as far as possible, and that as the constitutional government required trained troops, the Cossacks would be taken into service and would receive the usual pay. The British and Russian ministers have urged the shah to arrange terms with the Nationalists, but the shah has refused. It is reported that the Nationalists will make an attack on the sultan at the palace.

RIOT FOLLOWS STRIKE

Berious Trouble Precipitated at Car Plant at McKees Rocks.

Pittsburg, July 15.—A hundred deputy sheriffs armed with Winchesters are guarding the plant of the Pressed Steel Car company, and 200 state constabulary are enroute to the scene from Greensburg.

Pittsburg, July 15.—Following the striking of about half the force of the Pressed Steel Car company's employees at McKees Rocks, near here, the entire plant was closed down, immediately after which rioting commenced between 2,000 strikers and employees who had remained at work.

When the first of the strikers reached the outer gates they were attacked by strikers armed with missiles, and special watchmen stationed there commenced to fire revolvers over the heads of the crowd. One man was struck by a bullet and slightly wounded and another was arrested. He was rescued by friends and the watchman was compelled to flee.

Several thousand strikers later gathered about the gates of the company and fights and rioting continued. More than a hundred were more or less seriously injured by the strikers, and only the arrival of a sheriff's deputy and a squad of special officers prevented serious trouble.

May Demand Explanation.
Evansville, Ind., July 15.—While there is only a slight probability that the Central Labor Union will withdraw its support from the striking carmen of the Evansville & Southern Indiana Traction company for their rejection of peace terms offered by the company Monday, it is reported that at the regular weekly meeting of the central body tonight conservative unionists will demand an explanation of the carmen's reversal when what was deemed a satisfactory settlement had been practically completed.

Young Brockhofen Released.
Columbus, O., July 15.—Harry Brockhofen, the fifteen-year-old Chicago boy who was suspected of knowing something concerning the disappearance from a train of a friend, Cecil Cuthbert, with whom he ran away from Chicago, May 25, was taken into custody by the police, but released when the authorities received word that he was not wanted either at Chicago or Elkhart, Ind., near which city it was reported that a dead body thought to be that of Cuthbert had been found.

Expresses Profound Regret.

Buenos Ayres, July 15.—The Bolivian government has sent a note to the Argentine government, expressing its profound regret at recent occurrences at LaPaz, where hostile demonstrations were made against the Argentine republic because of dissatisfaction over that government's award in the boundary dispute between Peru and Bolivia.

Raided Jap Seal Poachers.

Seward, Alaska, July 15.—The United States revenue cutter Perry seized the Japanese sealing schooner Taki, with eighteen men while they were killing seals within three miles of the Pribilof Islands. The Taki and her crew were taken to Unalaska.

CHINESE MASON

STILL SEEK LING

Head of Organization Denies Denver Story.

Indianapolis, July 15.—E. Lung, the Delaware street laundryman, also known as Chen Gum Shing, says in regard to a Denver story to the effect that Chinese imperial officials and the Chinese Masons were blocking the search for Leon Ling, alleged murderer of Elsie Sigel, the New York missionary girl, if the Chinese officials or Chinese Masons had issued any orders to the Chinese of the country to block the search for Leon Ling he does not know anything about it. Chin is at the head of a Chinese society known as Hong Soon Tong, which has lodges all over the world and more than 1,500 in the United States. The society members are called Chinese Masons by English-speaking people. Chin said the members of the Hong Soon Tong were still searching for Ling and that it is only a question of time until they will bring about his arrest if he is alive. Chin said he did not believe the Chinese consul would do anything to retard the search. He said the story must have originated among some of the other Chinese societies.

“Some of them are highbinders—they do anything,” he said.

THIS AND THAT

Cheer up! Maybe it won't rain some day.

For snoopers the world never has had and never will have any respect.

SAME OLD STORY.

I met a sturdy granger
In town the other day.
I stopped and asked him
How crops were out his way,
And the tale he told it sounded
Like the one I used to know,
For I heard in every harvest
In the days of long ago.
"The corn is looking good enough
An' the wheat is muddin' fair,
But there seems to be an awful lot
Of chinch bugs everywhere.
I'm afraid that if the summer
Keeps on bein' this wet
They'll get the bulge upon the crops
An' spoil our prospects yet."
"The chinch bugs haven't troubled you
For many, many years,"
Said I unto the farmer,
To mitigate his fears.
"Have you forgot about the time
When good Professor Snow
With his chinch bug cholera mirobe
Dealed them such a blow?"
"Ah, no, I aint forgot it,"
The honest farmer said—
"But now the bugs are coming back,
For Mr. Snow is dead."

The man who sighs for childhood days again, would kick about getting up in time to get to school, just the same.

The men who make a success of life never spend much time figuring out how others did before them. A peck of initiative is worth a carload of imitation.

Most of the "joy riding" in Rushville in the next few weeks will be done on the merry-go-round.
